I am writing in regards to John A Macdonald Road name change. I have been a home owner here for almost 27 years and I feel left out that we do not have a voice in this change. Changing the name is not going to heal anyone. I can see putting an education center on how these things came to be at the native school and having councillors available for people there to recognize and help those suffering. Not all things done by John A Macdonald were bad. We need to recognize and admit our mistakes from the past to help us not repeat them Changing the name is not doing that and it will be an expense for home owners for address changes with post office, banks, land titles and so for. I do believe the residents on this street have been left out of the design and I believe we live in a democratic society

Yours sincerely

Shirley Hannan
