I am concerned about the polarity your bylaws will have on marginalized people who need church services. As clergy, I can not and will not differentiate between vaxxed and unvaxxed for spiritual service and care.

The science shows that this is not necessary. Saskatoon can not afford to over reach in these bylaws. They are outside regulations for the province and I think you will find this is not in the best interest of the city members or those whos work takes them to the city.

It is erroneous to think that the vaxxed are not spreading covid 19. The vaccine decreases symptoms making our fellow vaxxed citizens a concerning demographic! Only having mild symptoms does not make someone with a cold less viral. Each person who catches a cold will have differing severity. Your methods are a little concerning and more than tyrannical.

It's over reach. You were elected to handle city work not health issues. You are out of line and unqualified in your office to make these types of decisions. The province is called to this type of action, not you.
