Comments

I was part of the "Infill Focus Group" that was assembled to perform an in depth review of current infill regulations and look for areas of improvement. Our group consisted of infill residents, professional designers, and home builders. As such, we had a wide variety of viewpoints and experience. You could say we were a group of NIMBY's and YIMBY's.

Our group got into the fine details about the impacts of proposed changes. We analyzed many concepts in our review and the ones that made it through to the end were the ones that had the best balance between flexibility for new home designs and minimal impacts on neighbouring properties.

You may hear opposition to some of the changes but undoubtedly, they will be from sources that have not dug as deep into the details as our group did.

The proposed changes will be good for infill neighbourhoods and I believe they should be approved as presented.

Thank you.
