Comments:

I just wanted to say because I'm sure there will be resistance to this project by people who know very little about what's good for a growing city. I'm very excited for this project and think it should go through it'll contribute more to city revenues, it'll add to city housing stock which has the potential to help with outrageous housing prices, it'll look really cool and add to the skyline which makes more people want to come here. It'll fall into the government's plan to have high density housing near transit oh yea good location. I've lived in Vancouver there tallest proposed towers ARE NOT being constructed in the downtown core. The only negative I've seen people bring up so far in opposition is hurt feelings. I don't think that's a good enough reason for it not go forward. I really hope it gets built!!
