Comments:

On behalf on Walking Saskatoon, I would like to congratulate Mayor and Council on their continued funding of the Active Transportation Plan, which has resulted in an unprecedented level of improvement to the pedestrian infrastructure across the city.

In a time of fiscal restraint, it is more important than ever to take into account that converting car trips to walking/bike/transit trips is the most effective long-term plan to reduce maintenance costs for the city's transportation network.

We hope that the city will continue to fund the implementation of the Active Transportation Plan at an appropriate inflation-adjusted level so we can continue to see new sidewalks and other pedestrian infrastructure in Saskatoon.
