Comments:

I'm writing to add my voice to that of the Swalewatchers to vote in favour of Option 1- do not endorse the study. If we have learned anything in the last few years, it is that these natural areas are absolutely essential for many reasons- maintaining plant species, providing natural areas for city dwellers to explore and most importantly to offset climate change. We are fortunate to have these natural areas within our city limits. Endorsing more roads sends the message that cars are king, and that the city is not invested in it's natural beauty and all it has to offer for our physical, and mental health and the health of our planet. Please consider the current state of our city and planet when discerning this decision.
