Comments:

Thank you for continuing to work toward toward creating an Active Transportation network of safer, continuous, and connected active transportation routes, free of gaps and danger zones, maintained appropriately, linking common Saskatoon destinations. Cycling is a good way to stay healthy through regular exercise, is generally less stressful than driving and does not create greenhouse gas emissions. However riding in many areas of Saskatoon is very dangerous as the tragic deaths of Natasha Fox and Darin Kinniewess have shown. The Road Safety Audit at College Drive and Wiggins Avenue is a step towards addressing cycling hazards in Saskatoon. At the request of Saskatoon Cycles, I am asking you to please reconsider the SPCT's defeat of recommendation 8 and help make College and Wiggins a little bit safer than it was exactly 11 months ago.
