I bought a house in this area because of extremely low crime rates(a single man raising my children), proximity to schools and access to grocery stores and shopping . The proposed changes to a vibrant established neighborhood with low crime rates is about to be changed by a) partisan politics b) low income housing c) a rapid transit system d)

4 storey apartment blocks and at this point who knows what else. The boundary map seems to have changed to now include Deborah Crescent. I was told by Andy Collins of Planning and Development that 2 to 3 decades might be a fair assessment of time frame. I read online that 2 to 3 years is when this all starts. I am against the apartment blocks and low rental(indiscriminant to who rents), and lack of off street parking. I am also against the removal of building codes and bylaws that will be eased to accomodate builders. This all makes no sense. The crime rates will increase(federal study) with densification. this will no longer be a safe area to raise children or own property. People will move out of this area to escape the ill thought out plans by this administration. Who buys my house in an area where congestion is happening. If I dont sell in a timely manner, my house value decreases. You people have effectively forced me out. What a shame. It was a very desirable area...once.
