

Vision Zero Jurisdictional Review

Vision Zero is fairly new to Canada. The City of Edmonton was the first to launch this initiative in 2015. The measures implemented by Canadian municipalities vary since they are tailored for each community and implementation location.

The following table outlines measures used by some Vision Zero municipalities in Canada as an example of implementation measures that could be considered for Saskatoon. This is not an extensive list of measures that are implemented; these municipalities may be implementing additional programs not captured in this table. The Saskatoon specific measures would be identified once the data is compiled and hot spots/trends are identified.
